Topics discussed include:

- The biology underlying skeletal growth and development leading to adult skeletal morphology
- Current research in understanding in bone modeling
- Histological features of dental hard tissues and their utility in biological anthropology
- Histological analysis as a means to differentiate human from nonhuman bone and for the purpose of age estimation

- Technological aspects of hard tissue histology, including laboratory requirements and high-resolution imaging

In most cases, the physical remains of humans available to bioarchaeologists, paleopathologists, and paleontologists are limited to skeletal material.
