Nearly Natal: A Laugh-Out-Loud Comedy Series (Part I) Kerry Taylor

Part I of a IV Part Series Melissa Adams believes she has it all she acts like the perfect housewife, mother, friend, and daughter. Referred to as Baltimore's first lady. Her hair is styled to perfection, her skin is as soft as new-born baby's bottom, and her wardrobe is to die for! Melissa has this image, because it is expected of her. She has been groomed by her mother from birth to be 'perfect' in every way. She sets up a prenatal and postnatal group, Nearly Natal to shine as a star in her Country Club for reaching out to the community. Instead she has children urinating on her shoes, women dripping breast milk as they walk and acting as a midwife in one session. As Melissa sessions commence she learns so much about herself and the true meaning of being a mother. She gets more than she bargains for her in weekly sessions of Nearly Natal.
